FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19

FREE-TRADE, FREE SILVER, CHAOS.

That is What the Triumph of Bryanism Would Bring to the Country.

Will the mechanics, the farmers, the miners and the laboring men in 1900 repeat the folly of 1892? That's the question to be determined at the polls in November.

In 1892 the country was in a most prosperous condition; labor was employed everywhere at good wages; mills, furnaces and factories all over the country were actively and profitably employed, and the farmers had good markets for their products at satisfactory prices. The nation had never been apparently in a more contented condition than early in the summer of that year when the conventions of the two great political parties met.

The only issue the Democrat party could decide upon was that of Free Trade, and that was put forward as the paramount issue of their campaign. The farmers were told that they were paying too much to the merchant; the workmen were informed that they were being robbed by the traders; that the McKinley bill was oppressing the poor and enriching the rich, and that the only salvation and hope for the country was the repeal of the McKinley bill and the substitution of a free-trade measure. Its most persistent and energetic of its followers was William J. Bryan. At that time he had not thought of silver as an issue. He was an out and out Free-Trader, then, as now.

Mr. Cleveland was elected President upon this Free-Trade platform, and his election was due to the vote of the farmers and the workmen of their country. Nothing could turn this class of our citizens in their determination to have free-trade. They got it, and I think they got a little more of it than they wanted. The Wilson bill was immediately enacted into a law, just as the workmen and farmers demanded that it should be. The Democracy was triumphant; folly was in the saddle, and what was the result?

Within twelve months after the election of Cleveland the manufacturing industries of the United States were paralyzed; and two-thirds of the workmen of this country were out of employment, and the other third were working at starvation wages. Trade and commercial interests of all kinds were at a standstill; banks, mercantile establishments, manufacturing concerns and enterprises went tumbling to the ground in hopeless wrecks; on all sides was financial and commercial chaos. A financial cyclone swept over the country, destroying the rich and poor alike; values of all kinds of property were swept headlong to destruction; products of the farm were hardly worth the gathering; the output of the factories, mills, furnaces and forges were not salable at all. The farmers in the Middle West and the sheep ranchers in the great Rocky Mountain region found their wool hardly worth collecting at 5 and 6 cents a pound.

Every other product of farm, ranch and mill was so reduced in value as not to be profitable, or was unsalable altogether. Wheat was sold at 30 cents a bushel; corn was sold for fuel in many States, the fruits of the orchards in the Pacific States were left to rot on the ground. Distress and disaster ran riot, everywhere, the banker and the laborer, the merchant and the farmer, the manufacturer and the operator stood together hopeless, crippled and discouraged. This was the condition of affairs brought about in the United States by the vote of the workmen and the farmers who followed William J. Bryan's advice in voting for Cleveland and Free Trade. Alas! if they repeat, the folly of 1892! During the four terrible years fol-

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy. Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no hope outside of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time cannot assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place, for the disease is in the blood—it is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plaster. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effete matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you?

Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so polluted that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the eyelid, lip or nose, a small lump on the jaw or breast, a harmless looking wart or mole, and other causes so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S. at once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells.

Mrs. R. Shier, La Plata, Mo., writes: "A small pimple came on my jaw about one inch below the ear on the left side of my face. At first it gave me no trouble, and I did not think it was anything serious until the jaw began to swell and became much inflamed. At the same time the sore began to spread and eat into the flesh, and gave me intense pain. I tried everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. Then began the use of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles the Cancer healed, and there was no sign of the disease. This was two years ago, and I am still enjoying perfect health."

Send for our special book on Cancer; it contains much information that will interest you; it is free. Write our physicians about your case, and for any advice or information wanted, they have made a life study of Cancer and all blood diseases. We make no charge whatever for this.
